Art

The NAHS is collaborating with students from Jordan in a year-long project titled, Common Ground. The project thesis is about transcending national borders by creating meaningful artworks. The art will build bridges between the two cultures and act as a platform for self-expression while being mailed back and forth between the two countries (art pen pals). Common Ground will be a series of workshops between our National Art Honor Society and the King's Academy to create a collaborative art piece. The workshops will take place throughout the year.

Its' final product will be displayed at the end of the year at Rowan University. Common Ground has previously been done between the King's Academy in Jordan and Brazil, Malta, and New York City.

TV TECH:

We finally received a piece of equipment that needed repair, but since the studio doesn't have a map, Ms. Yanez is waiting to hear from TVP (Total Video Products, the company who installed the equipment in the studio) for them to hook up all equipment and make sure it's all working properly.

Ms. Yanez has reached out to production businesses who have donated old equipment (especially lights).

Film Videotape

The focus of the courses so far has been video field productions (as the TV studio is still under repairs). As Ms. Yanez has gained experience teaching this course, the student's quality of work has improved overall.

AVC Club

AVC stands for Audiovisual Communications and it's a new club where students get to take their story-telling skills to the next level. We meet every Monday during lunch.

ATHLETICS:

Men's basketball won the Pitman Classic holiday tournament and are currently undefeated.

Women's basketball current record is 1-5 and have improved tremendously.

Paul Cynewski has been recommended for the Men's Head Tennis coaching position.
