Re: Action Memo
February 2020 Board Meeting

---

Seeking approval for Rowan University to conduct a study with Glassboro High School students who receive accommodations. The purpose of the study is to use simulated meetings to support the transition of students with disabilities into college. The goals of the study are to provide students with an opportunity to practice talking to a college professor about classroom supports that they might receive if they enroll in college. In the study, the researchers hope to find out how students talk about their needs and whether this opportunity to practice talking about their needs is helpful. The study will be conducted during the spring of 2020. Up to 20 participants will engage in a video-recorded conversation which will be followed by answering questions in a small group and watching the video and debriefing with a professor. Consent is required for all students who participate. Consent and assent forms are attached.
